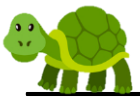
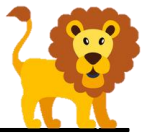
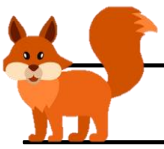
Wednesday – Alliteration

Alliteration is the deliberate use of the same sounds at the beginning of several words which are closely linked together, and is often used in poetry. Use alliteration to write an A-Z of animals. There are some examples below to help you.

An angry alligator anxiously acting.
Bashful badgers balancing on balloons.
Cheeky chimpanzees chomping on chips.







Extension ideas

- Design a safari park for all your wonderful creatures.
- Write a poem or a story which includes some or all of your animals.
- Draw pictures of your crazy animals and their antics! A partner could try and guess which one you have drawn.
- Make a collage of one of your animals.

© Classroom Secrets Limited 2020

Visit kids.classroomsecrets.co.uk for online games to support learning.

Join our Group: Coronavirus Home Learning Support for Teachers and Parents